ARTISTICALLY SPEAKING

Designing a season is one of the primary responsibilities—and greatest joys—of being an artistic director. Since arriving at Arena Stage last summer, the question I’ve been asked the most is, “What is my artistic vision for this historic institution?” Specifically, what kind of shows do I plan to program? What types of conversations do I want to curate? How do I hope to put our audience in community with each other? They’re excellent questions, and I am delighted to whet your appetite with a peek into my curatorial mind with this thrilling addition to the 2023/24 Season, Vinny DePonto’s captivating and illuminating work in Mindplay.

With a genre of storytelling that tests the limits of our minds and our memory, Mindplay revels in our essential need to contextualize our thoughts and reveals the breadth of the collective human experience. As Vinny stated, “It’s not a magic show, but it is magical.”

Since first being drawn to Vinny’s work as a mentalist, I have admired his ability to tap into our most sacred hopes, secret dreams, and quiet vulnerabilities. In exploring his creations, I find myself more connected, more porous, and more able to see beyond the masks we wear, glimpsing, if only briefly, at the rich inner life of those around me.

Vinny’s unique storytelling delves into essential questions about the mind—how it honors and uplifts, protects, and distorts, begging us to, in turn, ask ourselves: What is the human impulse to reach toward magic, and how do we find magic in the everyday? These threads are woven throughout Mindplay, inviting us to contemplate the unknowable profundity of our own consciousness.

In recent years, we have collectively been reminded of the power of community and the importance of direct interaction. Here, the audience can not only interact with each other but also with the art and the artist. Mindplay is a testament to the magic that happens when we come together in shared spaces, exploring the depths of our humanity.

Tonight, let us embark on a journey into the mind, where our memories are unearthed, and the boundaries of our understanding are pushed. Thank you for joining us; may you leave unburdened from your thoughts and basking in the subtle magic of everyday moments.

Hana S. Sharif
Artistic Director
Magic, memories, and a mentalist. Welcome to Mindplay, a timely addition to Arena's 2023/24 Season. These three “M”s represent superpowers we all need to be exposed to these days. We stepped into the 2023 winter holiday season with Step Afrika!'s Magical Musical Holiday Step Show, and now we enter 2024 with magic of a different kind.

For some, you might be thinking this is a departure from Arena’s usual fare. On the contrary, Arena has welcomed many artists to grace our stages with unique theatrical performance art. In addition to many serious-minded one-person pieces, such as Kathleen Turner’s incredible performances in Red Hot Patriot and The Year of Magical Thinking, Jeanne Sakata’s powerful Hold These Truths, and the wonderful Benjamin Scheuer’s The Lion, Arena has hosted several pieces exploring improvisation and physical humor that keeps audiences on their toes and their minds alive.

Going way back, the comedy duo Monteith and Rand performed in the Kreeger in the 1982/83 and 1983/84 Seasons. They [John Montieth and Suzanne Rand] mixed comedy skits with improvisation, delighting audiences. Bill Irwin is a producer, a director, and famously known as a physical actor who many may recall from their childhood as Mr. Noodle. In 1985, the Kreeger stage witnessed his one-man piece The Regard of Flight, which made him one of America’s most well-known clowns. Another physical performer, Avner the Eccentric, shared his brand of comedy, clowning, and magic with Arena audiences in 1986 and 1992. All were Broadway successes for these shows and established careers in a variety of performance types. Mindplay has legitimate ambitions in this regard.

Arena Stage’s vision is to galvanize the transformative power of theater to understand who we are as Americans. Vinny DePonto adds his name to the notable list of artists with performances that expand beyond a plot-focused technique to help us open our minds and hearts to new ways of thinking. Realism is an important part of storytelling and yet the value of live performance is a joint experience in gathering. Moments are amplified by the sweat, breath, and presence of both those on the stage and in the house. Looking into our minds and memories builds a path toward understanding. Theatrical storytelling has many forms, and this beautiful Kogod Cradle is living up to its name, cradling us as we explore different dimensions.

The human mind is a fascinating subject. Just what do we give away with our comments, our movements, our laughter? We may pride ourselves on being hard to read even as we are unknowingly giving clues out freely.

You may be in for a new experience today, truly making a unique connection between audience and performer—unless you have seen Mindplay before and are back for more, in which case don’t share any secrets!

Prepare to be energized.

A NOTE FROM VINNY DEPONTO

THE MIND IS A FUNNY PLACE

“If we could recall everything, we would be as incapacitated as if we could not recall at all; a condition to remember is that we must forget.” —William James

The mind is a funny place. And it is. A place, that is.

There is this technique called the “memory palace” that can be used to help us store a lot of things inside of our minds. You picture places that look like places you’ve been, where you can tuck away memories, stories, ideas, and many other things. You can use that mental image as sort of a map to hide and retrieve these things.

The Greek poet Simonides created this technique. One evening, moments after leaving a party, he watched the building he’d just exited collapse, crushing everyone inside beyond recognition. He was later able to recall the layout of the entire room and in doing so, the exact location of each person, helping families locate their lost loved ones. Through this tragedy, he discovered that by imagining a physical space, he could carefully arrange images inside of it and remember enormous amounts of information. Also, he probably never went to another party again.

These palaces can be old like that bowling alley you used to go to as a kid. Or they can be sprawling and full of cat hair like your Aunt’s house. Or they can be cozy like your childhood bedroom. Or they can be tidy like your Mom’s kitchen. Someone once stuffed 70,000 digits of pi in their pantry. That’s a lotta pi.

Our memories are pillars on which we base our reality. They help us navigate the world—but sometimes we get stuck inside them. I have many palaces in my head; this is but one of them.

Let’s party.

ARENA STAGE LEADERSHIP

HANA S. SHARIF (Artistic Director) has enjoyed a multi-faceted theater career, including roles as an artistic leader, director, playwright, and producer with a specialty in strategic and cross-functional leadership. Hana began her professional career as an undergraduate student at Spelman College. From 1997 to 2003, Hana served as the co-founder and Artistic Director of Nasir Productions, a theater dedicated to underrepresented voices challenging traditional structure. Hana joined the Tony® Award-winning regional theater, Hartford Stage, in 2003. During her decade-long tenure at Hartford Stage, Hana served as the Associate Artistic Director, Director of New Play Development, and Artistic Producer. Hana launched the new play development program, expanded the community engagement and civic discourse initiatives, and developed and produced Tony®, Grammy, Pulitzer, and Obie Award-winning shows. Starting in 2012, she served as Program Manager at ArtsEmerson, a leading world theater company based at Boston's Emerson College. During her tenure at ArtsEmerson, Hana launched an Artists in Residency program, led a research program assessing barriers to inclusion across the region, and leveraged her regional theater experience to freelance produce for smaller theater companies looking to expand and restructure their administrative teams. Hana was Baltimore Center Stage’s Associate Artistic Director from 2014 to 2019 and was the architect of the innovative CS Digital program: a platform that pushes the boundaries of traditional theater and looks at the nexus point between art and technology. Her other achievements at Baltimore Center Stage included prototyping the Mobile Unit focused on historically underserved audiences, strengthening community engagement, producing multiple world and regional premieres, and helping to guide the theater through a multi-million dollar building renovation and rebranding effort. Hana became the first Black woman to lead a major regional theater in 2018 when she was named the Augustin Family Artistic Director of The Repertory Theatre of St. Louis. During her tenure at The Rep, Hana guided the organization through a strategic alignment, revolutionized the New Works program, expanding access to underserved communities, and centering equity and anti-racism as the organization’s foundational values. Hana holds a BA from Spelman College and an MFA from the University of Houston. Hana is the recipient of USITT’s 2023 Distinguished Achievement Award, Spelman’s 2022 National Community Service Award, the 2009-10 Aetna New Voices Fellowship, EMC Arts Working Open Fellowship, and Theatre Communications Group (TCG) New Generations Fellowship. Hana is a founding member of The Black Theatre Commons (BTC). She serves on the board of directors for the TCG, BTC, and the Sprott Family Foundation.

EDGAR DOBIE (Executive Producer) Born in Vernon, British Columbia, a village next to the Rocky Mountains (three years after Arena had its first performance in 1950), I am one of five brothers raised by my Dad Edgar, a mechanic and small businessman, and Mom Connie, a telephone operator and union organizer. I am the only Dobie to make a career in theater. Luckily for me, drama was an arts elective I was offered at the tender age of 12 so I hung up my hockey skates and joined the drama class, led by teacher Paddy Malcolm and her fledgling Powerhouse Community Theater after school. By the time I graduated from high school, we volunteers had built ourselves a 200-seat, fully equipped theater on its own piece of land in the center of town and found a sold-out audience for the full season of plays we had on offer. That experience taught me so many lessons about the power of theater to foster collaboration and share meaningful stories, as well as the public values that attach themselves to building a safe place where everyone is welcome. All those lessons served me well as a managing leader and producer both sides of the border and both sides of the commercial and non-profit theater divide. Arriving here in Southwest with my good wife Tracy and our daughter Greta Lee in 2009 makes me feel like I am well-equipped to do a good job for you all. I am honored to have been recognized for my service to, and leadership of, the Washington, D.C.-area theater community as a recipient of Theatre Washington’s inaugural Victor Shargai Leadership Award in 2022.
