When I first read Ken Lin’s play well over a year ago, chills went up and down my spine. The first scene of the play reminded me so much of my trip to Russia almost 20 years ago and the desperation, energy and drive in the people.

How could Ken be so prescient to write this play when America has been newly engaged with a cyber Russia? We only understand our present when we dig into our past. This play takes us into the 1990s when the Cold War was coming to an end and the Soviet Union was collapsing. Kleptocracy focuses on U.S.–Russia relations when diplomacy rides on the coattails of crude oil, among the storm of hyper-capitalism, Oligarchs, chaos and corruption.

This play is about the rise of the Oligarchs. It focuses on businessman Mikhail Khodorkovsky and rising star Vladimir Putin. It is a fascinating prism through which to look at our own relationship with Russia in the United States now. Kleptocracy is the most dangerous play at Arena Stage this season. Dangerous because playwright Kenneth Lin has taken us right into the heart of greed, manipulation and the rise of the wealthy and Putin in Russia in the 1990s and 2000s, reminding us of where we are now.

When we are doing our job, theater-makers are looking for meaning in our work—and boy, is this ever a moment when our work speaks to an audience that is ready to gather in community, hear the truth and for a few hours be transported out of their everyday life into a fantasy or a truth-telling session where our hearts beat as one. After watching the nominating process for Supreme Court justices or seeing the fear on the faces of a caravan of asylum-seekers, one can see clearly how essential it is to be able to see through a façade, understand challenges from different sides and recognize the strength necessary to take a stand for an ideal. Kleptocracy takes us into the heart of darkness we are living through. Thanks Ken Lin, Jackson Gay, Rob Ahrens (who had the idea of the play in the first place) and the whole company for shining a light on our understanding of Russia.

Many thanks,

Molly Smith
Artistic Director

In reflecting on Kleptocracy, I took a look at Arena’s own governance structure and path to an organization that has a guiding principle to “create a work culture that reflects and borrows from the culture of the rehearsal hall which values experimentation and collaboration.”

You probably know, Arena Stage was first formed in 1950, before there was a resident or not-for-profit theater movement. Arena Stage, Inc., sold shares and was structured like what we now call a public corporation. Yes, shareholders were paid dividends when applicable, which ultimately was not proving “profitable” for them. Arena was able to convince many shareholders to sell back their shares and the corporation was one of the first to officially become not-for-profit in 1959. (Our incorporated name is Washington Drama Society, Inc.)

What does it mean to be not-for-profit? The purpose of a 501(C)3 of the Internal Revenue Tax Code means “charitable and educational.” Organizations like Arena still have a Board but ours is a Board of Trustees, not Directors. Our Board holds our organization in trust for the community that we uphold our vision to galvanize the transformative power of theater to understand who we are as Americans.

The Board of Trustees has the primary duty of hiring and supervising the artistic director and executive producer and overseeing the organization’s general financial health. Ancillary to those responsibilities are being ambassadors and fundraisers for the organization. Supported by a committee structure that oversees details in vital areas like finance and fundraising, the Board provides a safeguard that the organization will remain sustainable.

One way to look at not-for-profit is that it means that all proceeds go back into the organization and no one person or group of people benefit from the financial profits. (I dare say we all benefit from the intangible profits of great theater!) As veteran theater goers know, the price of a ticket is only a contribution toward the expense to bring the art to audiences and ticket sales do not cover the cost alone. In the for-profit commercial theater model, there is a group of producers and investors who have paid the costs to bring the show to audiences, and then they are repaid for their investment. If the show is a hit, there is potential for producers and investors to make back more than they invested, and that is their revenue alone. For Arena and peer theaters, we have a generous band of contributors who help support the organization through their gifts and other support. It all goes into the Arena Stage pot and not into anyone’s pockets.

Beyond the Board and my and Molly’s positions, Arena has a dedicated and intelligent senior staff who manage the operation of the organization. Flip to the last two pages of this program to see the names of the people who make Arena Stage what it is. It takes collaboration and a community to conceive, build, create and run a theater like ours.

With a faithful adherence to our well-conceived governance model there would never be an opportunity for Arena oligarchs to emerge. No Putins here!

Kenneth Lin’s play is a fictionalized account of historical events. For a deeper dive into the truth underlying the story he has crafted, here are four metrics illuminating the Russia of Vladimir Putin and Mikhail Khodorkovsky.

PRIVATIZATION OF RUSSIA &
THE RISE OF THE OLIGARCHS

When the Soviet Union collapsed in 1991, the new government of Russia was faced with the difficult questions of how to dismantle the old communist structures and what to do with the state-owned businesses and properties. It was at this moment that the oligarchs were empowered and the foundations of Putin’s ultimate rise to power were laid.

VOUCHERS

All citizens were given vouchers by which they could purchase shares in state-owned companies. The majority of the populace, however, needed cash more than they needed potential business ownership, so a relative few individuals were able to buy up significant numbers of the vouchers, representing the lion’s share of the 15,000 firms transferred from state control.

LOANS FOR SHARES

Instead of being sold through vouchers, the largest companies were instead used as collateral to secure loans to President Boris Yeltsin’s government; when the state defaulted on those loans, the Oligarchs were able to secure control of those companies for rock-bottom prices in rigged auctions.

In addition to these government programs, the Oligarchs (including Khodorkovsky) used other even less scrupulous schemes to transfer significant portions of the state’s wealth to their own pockets, establishing themselves as the center of power in the new Russia and sowing the seeds of their own defeat by Putin.

ARENA STAGE LEADERSHIP

MOLLY SMITH (Artistic Director) has served as Artistic Director since 1998. Her more than 30 directing credits at Arena Stage include Anything Goes, Sovereignty, Carousel, The Originalist, Fiddler on the Roof, Camp David, Mother Courage and Her Children, Oklahoma!, A Moon for the Misbegotten, My Fair Lady, The Great White Hope, The Music Man, Legacy of Light, The Women of Brewster Place, Cabaret, South Pacific, All My Sons and How I Learned to Drive. Her directorial work has also been seen Off-Broadway at 59E59 in New York, Canada’s Shaw Festival, The Court Theatre, The Old Globe, Asolo Repertory, Berkeley Repertory, Trinity Repertory, Toronto’s Tarragon Theatre, Montreal’s Centaur Theatre and Perseverance Theater in Juneau, Alaska, which she founded and ran from 1979–1998. Molly has been a leader in new play development for over 40 years. She is a great believer in first, second and third productions of new work and has championed projects including How I Learned to Drive; Passion Play, a cycle; Next to Normal; and Dear Evan Hansen. She led the re-invention of Arena Stage, focusing on the architecture and creation of the Mead Center for American Theater and positioning Arena Stage as a national center for American artists. During her time with the company, Arena Stage has workshoped more than 100 productions, produced 39 world premieres, staged numerous second and third productions and been an important part of nurturing nine projects that went on to have a life on Broadway. In 2014, Molly made her Broadway debut directing The Velocity of Autumn, following its critically acclaimed run at Arena Stage. She was awarded honorary doctorates from American University and Towson University. In 2018, she was honored as Person of the Year by the National Theatre Conference and inducted into the Washington D.C. Hall of Fame.

EDGAR DOBIE (Executive Producer) Born in Vernon, British Columbia, a village next to the Rocky Mountains (three years after Arena had its first performance in 1950), I am one of five brothers raised by my Dad—Edgar, a mechanic and small businessman—and Mom—Connie, a telephone operator and union organizer. I am the only Dobie to make a career in theater. Luckily for me, drama was an arts elective I was offered at the tender age of 12, so I hung up my hockey skates and joined the drama class, led by teacher Paddy Malcolm and her fledgling Powerhouse Community Theater after school. By the time I graduated from high school, we volunteers had built ourselves a 200-seat fully-equipped theater on its own piece of land in the center of town and found a sell-out audience for the full season of plays we had to offer. That experience taught me so many lessons about the power of theater to foster collaboration and share meaningful stories, as well as the public values that attach themselves to building a safe place where everyone is welcome. All those lessons served me well as a managing leader and producer both sides of the border, and both sides of the commercial and non-profit theater divide. Arriving here at Arena in 2009 makes me feel like I am well-equipped for the best job in the world.

This theater operates under an agreement between the League of Resident Theatres and Actors’ Equity Association.

The actors and stage managers are members of Actors’ Equity Association, the Union of Professional Actors and Stage Managers in the United States.

The scenic, costume, lighting and sound designers in LORT theaters are represented by United Scenic Artists, Local USA-829 of the IATSE.

THANK YOU FOR LEAVING YOUR LEGACY AT ARENA STAGE

CREATE A LEGACY BY JOINING THE FULL CIRCLE SOCIETY

You don’t have to be wealthy to make a significant gift. Bequests and other planned gifts allow you the opportunity to make a significant contribution that will ensure the future of Arena Stage. The Full Circle Society allows us the opportunity to recognize you for that gift during your lifetime. For more information about making a planned gift or to inform us of your existing planned gift, please contact Holly Oliver at 202-600-4029 or holiver@arenastage.org.

“We feel the long-term viability of theater really has to come from two sources — annual fundraising efforts and long-term donations [in the form of a planned gift] from the people who love the theater and are willing to commit to it in perpetuity.”

— Beth Newburger Schwartz and the late Richard Schwartz
