

ARENA STAGE SUSPENDS ALL PERFORMANCES FOR THE REMAINDER OF ITS 2019/20 SEASON

In light of ongoing developments resulting from the coronavirus (COVID-19) and the national move to cancel group gatherings as recommended by the Center for Disease Control and Prevention and District of Columbia Health Authorities, Arena Stage has made the difficult decision to suspend all remaining performances for its 2019/20 Season, as well as select special events and community engagement programs. Productions of Celia and Fidel, August Wilson's Seven Guitars and Toni Stone have been postponed to the 2020/21 Season. Additionally, our building will be closed through at least April 27, 2020.

SUPPORT AMERICAN THEATER – DONATE TO THE ROARING BACK FUND

The next few months will be challenging for us and other arts organizations. With your help, we believe the theater will come back stronger than ever.

“We have artists who are longing to perform and artists who have powerful stories to tell; our audiences are the best and the brightest in the country,” said Artistic Director Molly Smith. “Many of our patrons are donating tickets back and we are grateful for their generosity. We ask our community, in this difficult time, to make a donation to our newly announced campaign: the Roaring Back Fund.”

Donate online at arenastage.org/roaringback. Your support would ensure that our artists and staff can continue to produce the best of American theater.

INTERMISSION

Arena Stage hosts virtual programming to engage the community. Programs include Molly's Salon, virtual dance classes and the Arena Stage Civil Dialogues.

Theater brings us together whether it's in a theater or reaching out through our computer screens. We have also asked many of our favorite artists to offer you their gifts of art and they did. We've been sharing these “gifts of art” on social media. View gallery and details about programs here.
