OF SLEEPING WATER
TAKING US BY THE HAND...

DEEPER AND DEEPER,
A LUMINOUS BLACKNESS OPENING
LIKE THE WINGS OF A RAVEN—

AS THOUGH A HEAVY WIND

THE COLD RUSHING IN,

AWAKENING FOREVER...

We have arrived—the final production of the 2017/18 season. Snow Child marks the close of Arena Stage’s 68th season, Molly’s 20th anniversary season, and the 5th world-premiere Power Play to open at Arena Stage. With Power Plays, we have embarked on an ambitious initiative to commission 25 new plays focused on each decade of American history from the 1770’s to the present decade. These plays tell stories of power and are written about moments that have come to define the United States.

Snow Child is a different kind of Power Play. Productions that have been seen earlier in our commissioning cycle, such as Camp David, The Originalist and Sovereignty, feature larger than life leaders who have had a role in shaping our nation’s history. Snow Child focuses on the interior experience of a couple shaping their own history as they move to Alaska seeking adventure, new frontiers, and a fresh start. While you can argue that the course of American history has been shaped by the likes of Justice Antonin Scalia or Presidents Andrew Jackson and Jimmy Carter, we all know that America itself is molded in the quiet moments of everyday life by people who may not be immortalized in statues and paintings. These ordinary people echo with the spirit of courage, optimism, and strength that are familiar to Americans across generations. Jack and Mabel’s desire to start over in a new land has been an ideal seen in the stories of our land since the pilgrims first came to this country.

We have the great fortune of having this story shepherded to the stage by Arena Stage’s artistic director, Molly Smith. Molly grew up in Alaska and returned there after her schooling to found Perseverance Theatre, our producing partner for this production. Molly is in some ways the Snow Child of Arena Stage—a force of imagination and magic, responsible for moments of profound awe and emotion onstage. As a citizen artist she also, like a pioneer, is at the front of the line in tackling tough social issues that are very personal to her and very present in all our lives. We are so fortunate to have her at the artistic helm of this institution and for the inspiring leadership she has provided over the last twenty seasons. Together with book writer John Strand, composer Bob Banghart and composer & lyricist Georgia Stitt and an expert team of designers, the vast Alaskan wilderness has blossomed on the stage of the Kreeger Theater.

We hope you enjoy tonight’s Power Play and that you will join us next season for more exciting work on our stages. Our season kicks off early with the world-premiere musical Dave, based on the Kevin Kline film of the same name. It is followed by more works of the enduring spirit of the American people and the stories and events that have shaped who we are today.

Thanks for reading,

Edgar Dobie, Executive Director

While traveling in Europe at the age of 19, Molly decided she wanted to start a theater in Alaska. For the next seven years she developed the dream and plan for the theater. She and her former husband Bill Ray moved back to Alaska after school and military service with 50 used theater seats and started the theater 6 months later with friends they met in Juneau. She was the Founding Artistic Director for 19 years until she came to Arena Stage. Perseverance Theatre celebrates its 40 anniversary next year and Snow Child will travel to Juneau and Anchorage in June.

“There are several words you often hear associated with Molly: fierce, brave, smart... but what stands out for me most about Molly is her heart. Heart is at the base of everything she does. It’s why she has this amazing ability to bring people together, to form community, to bring out the best from everyone and everything she touches."

— Louanne Christian, stage manager at Perseverance Theatre and friend

“Alaska in the late 70s and early 80s was a heady time. The state was flush with oil and young people — raw energy. Molly was a trail blazer, harnessing talent and ambition into a cohesive organization, unified in a single purpose: ‘Creating theatre by, for and about Alaskans.’ We were fortunate to be part of that incredible adventure and for our friendships with Molly and the rest of the Perseverance team. 40 years later, Molly continues to break trail, harnessing talent, leading a vibrant organization, producing passionate theatre and making new friends (but we’re still the favorites).”

— Mike Peterson and Kate Bowns, director, stage manager and head of finance, Perseverance Theatre
“When we think of Molly, we think of her unrelenting perseverance to explore and express the rich diversity of the Alaskan voice. We were not sure what it was, but we thought it was something wonderful, important and unique to the place we lived.

Our statewide tours were some of the most memorable experiences; we would perform in quonset huts, sleep on church floors and feast on king crab and salmon at community potlucks. We learned from everyone from Native leaders to loggers about their history, way of life and dreams. Molly’s curiosity, commitment to hear each person’s story, and risk without fear, led us on an incredible theater adventure that nurtured us all.

— Jamie McLean and Jack Cannon, co-founders, Perseverance Theatre staff member (technical director, playwright and actor), old time beloved friends

“20 years ago, this theater plucked Molly out of Alaska. It’s a big place, with big trees, big mountains, big animals, and this one extremely determined woman with big ideas. Arena has had the good fortune to feel the earth quaking ever since.”

— Bill C. Ray, co-founder, Perseverance Theatre, artist and theater designer

INTERVIEW WITH THE CREATORS OF SNOW CHILD

John, what first sparked your interest in this story?

JOHN STRAND: What most drew me to the story is the character who embodies the wildness and mystery of Alaska itself, the snow child. Like the land, she shapes and transforms everyone around her. Alaska is a central character, always present, glorious and unforgiving. When Molly Smith asked me about adapting Eowyn Ivey’s novel for the stage, I immediately said yes—but it has to be a musical. With Georgia and Bob's stunning score and lyrics, we've got the means to transform our audiences and give them something truly memorable. The challenge is in going from novel to live performance—a bit of a wild and mysterious transformation.

Molly and John, in what ways is Snow Child a “Power Play” musical?

MOLLY SMITH: Snow Child is about the movement farther west searching for a better life, the struggle of humans against the environment, and the dream of the Last Frontier. American politics have been steeped in these very issues from the founding of our country—manifest destiny, the oil pipelines, the people who came here to start a new life in a new country. Although the story does not incorporate historically known people, which makes it different from the other Power Plays so far, Snow Child is driven by these particularly American sentiments and ideas.

JOHN STRAND: In the fiercely independent, pioneering spirit that has always defined Alaska and its politics, the opposition to authority, especially a faceless federal government thousands of miles away in Washington, DC, that favored corporate interests over homesteaders and Native people.

Georgia and Bob, this musical has an exciting, unique sound. Can you tell us about the process of collaborating on a musical that pulls from traditional roots as well as a contemporary musical theater sound? How do you find that balance?

BOB BANGHART: The challenge for me at first was finding our common language. I come from a self-taught tradition that does not always produce a fluid knowledge of musical theory in contrast to Georgia who is highly skilled and academically trained. We had to invent a language for us to communicate the core ideas we needed to meld together.

GEORGIA STITT: I have a distinct memory of talking about a song moment and realizing that my words were not making sense to Bob. He has studied both art history and mechanical engineering and so we found a way to talk about the structure of the song—the shape of it, the colors of it, the way it builds, how it’s supported—and we drew a physical graph of the song on a cocktail napkin. It worked. We both said, “YES, that’s it!” Several cocktail napkins later, I think we have both learned a lot from each other and we’re very proud to say the score sounds like both of us. Many times when we played the song for John, he’d have questions about a lyric and I’d go back and rewrite that. So the back-and-forth among all three of us has really proven to be exciting. I’ve never had another collaboration quite like this one.

BOB BANGHART: The results have provided us with some wonderful surprises and earned confirmations. The best part is that we have been able to maintain and grow the work as collective, centered in service of character and support of story.

THE MAKING OF A POWER MUSICAL

Fall 2014: The idea to create Snow Child, a musical based on Eowyn Ivey's book, is born in a conversation between Arena Stage Artistic Director Molly Smith and Perseverance Theatre Artistic Director Art Rotch. John Strand signs on as book writer.

February 2015: Georgia Stitt and Bob Banghart join the Snow Child team as co-composers.

Spring 2015 – Fall 2017: A series of seven workshops occur to develop the musical.

March 13 – April 11, 2018: Snow Child rehearsals take place at Arena Stage.

April 12 – 25, 2018: Snow Child continues to progress during two weeks of previews, as the team performs the musical at night and continues to rehearse and make changes during the day.

April 26 – May 20, 2018: Snow Child is performed at Arena Stage.

ARENA STAGE LEADERSHIP

EDGAR DOBIE (Executive Director) Born in Vernon, British Columbia, a village next to the Rocky Mountains (three years after Arena had its first performance in 1950), I am one of five brothers raised by my Dad — Edgar, a mechanic and small businessman — and Mom — Connie, a telephone operator and union organizer. I am the only Dobie to make a career in theater. Luckily for me, drama was an arts elective I was offered at the tender age of 12, so I hung up my hockey skates and joined the drama class, led by teacher Paddy Malcolm and her fledgling Powerhouse Community Theater after school. By the time I graduated from high school, we volunteers had built ourselves a 200 seat fully-equipped theater on its own piece of land in the center of town and found a sell-out audience for the full season of plays we had to offer. That experience taught me so many lessons about the power of theater to foster collaboration and share meaningful stories, as well as the public values that attach themselves to building a safe place where everyone is welcome. All those lessons served me well as a managing leader and producer both sides of the border, and both sides of the commercial and non-profit theater divide. Arriving here at Arena in 2009 makes me feel like I am well-equipped for the best job in the world.

This theater operates under an agreement between the League of Resident Theatres and Actors’ Equity Association.
